

Royal Ambulance Inc Privacy Policy

Effective: January 1, 2024

Introduction

Royal Ambulance Inc (“Royal”) is committed to protecting the privacy and security of your information. This privacy policy (“Policy”) describes how we collect, use, and disclose information that you submit to us or that we collect through any Royal website or mobile application (collectively, “Sites”). Various specific sections discuss how we handle data pertaining to different state laws.

By accessing our Sites, you agree to the terms of this Policy, including the collection, use, and disclosure of your information, as described in this Policy.

Additionally, Royal’s Sites have links to external internet pages, including social media platforms, job application platforms, and other websites. Royal does not make any guarantee, warranty or representation regarding the accuracy of the information contained on the websites. Royal has no control over the privacy or security practices of external websites. It is important that you read and understand the policies of all websites with respect to these practices.

This Privacy Policy is in addition to, and does not replace, Royal Ambulance’s HIPAA Notice of Privacy Practices, which explains how we use and disclose our patients’ protected health information (“PHI”) and your rights to access and amend your PHI under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (“HIPAA”). In the event of a conflict between the terms of this Privacy Policy and the Notice of Privacy Practices with respect to PHI, the Notice of Privacy Practices will control to the extent of a conflict.

Information We Collect

Information You Provide Us Directly

Royal may collect certain information from you, such as your name, address, phone number, email address, or other demographic information when you request additional information, search and apply for a job with Royal, fill out a contact form, submit feedback to Royal, attend a Royal event, or otherwise engage with us. We may retain any messages you send us through the Sites pursuant to our retention policies. We use this information to operate, maintain, and provide you a superior website user experience as well as provide you information about Royal.

If you apply for employment at Royal, you may provide information about yourself as well as information regarding your education, employment history, demographic/equal employment opportunity data, educational history, degrees, certifications, credentials, references, locations, and other information included in your resume and in the application for employment that you submit.

Information We May Receive From Third Parties

We also may collect information regarding how you interact with our Sites and other websites, such as Royal pages and content on social media platforms. For example, if you “like” a photo on one of our social media sites, we may collect information related to that interaction. In some cases, we may receive information about you from third parties. Royal may receive information about you that you directly provided to a third party. For instance, Royal may use a third party to manage event registrations. The third party would provide Royal registrants’ data to facilitate the event.

Analytics Information

Royal may use website analytics to provide you the best possible experience with our web platforms, Sites and offerings. For example, when we send you emails, we may use technologies to determine whether the email has been opened and whether the links contained in it have been clicked on. We may combine this data with other information collected to measure your interest in Royal, improve our offerings to audiences, or our marketing campaigns, as well as tailor our interactions with you.

Some of our Sites may use website analytics vendors to better understand usage of our Sites or for offerings to audiences or general marketing campaigns. These tools collect information sent by your browser or mobile device, including the pages you visit and other information that assists us in improving our Sites and offerings.

Cookies

Royal may place internet "cookies" on the computer or other devices used by visitors to our Sites. Cookies are small text files that contain small amounts of information and are downloaded to your device. Cookies help us and/or the third parties who provide such cookies obtain information about your use of our Sites and assist us in our offerings. Royal uses two types of cookies: "session" cookies and "persistent" cookies. Royal uses Meta Pixel and GA4 for cookies.

A session cookie is temporary and expires after you end a session and close a Web browser. We may use session cookies to help customize visitors' experiences on our Sites, maintain a signed-on status while exploring the Sites, and track which Web pages visitors view on our Sites. On the other hand, persistent cookies remain on your hard drive and have an expiration date which remains for a set period of time.

We use cookies to help us tailor our Sites to our users and in our offerings or for marketing. Some features of our Sites may not work as intended if you decline to allow cookies or deactivate cookies. For instructions on how to remove existing cookies from your hard drive and/or block cookies from all websites, go to your browser's Web site for detailed instructions.

In addition, further information regarding cookies may be available from your internet service provider, operating system, or browser provider. Please review how to delete and remove existing cookies and block future cookies from your device, as well as making your opt-in or opt-out election with regard to future use of certain cookies by Royal.

Log File Information

Log file information is sent automatically to Royal by your browser each time you visit our Sites. This is not dependent on the presence or use of cookies and is unaffected by your opt-in or opt-out election concerning cookies. These logs may contain information such as the Internet domain from which you access our Sites; the date and time you visited our Sites; the areas of our Sites that you viewed; your computer's IP address that is automatically assigned when you log onto the Internet; the type of browser and operating system you use; and the address of the Web site you came from, if any.

Royal uses log file information to help us design our Sites; identify popular features; resolve user, hardware and software problems; and make the Sites more useful to patients and other visitors.

Location Data

Royal may utilize a feature that, when you access the Sites by or through a mobile device or through your browser, accesses, collects, monitors and/or remotely stores "location data," and may include GPS coordinates (longitude and latitude) or similar information regarding the location of your device. This data may be used to convey information about how you browse and use the Sites, as well as provide you personalized information based on that location data (such as the closest Royal location to you). You may opt-in or opt-out of sharing location data from your computer via your internet browser and/or computer location services settings.

Web Beacon

A web beacon is a small image file on a web page that may be used to collect certain information from your device. This information may include IP address, time of access, browser, and identification of cookies. Royal, or its vendors, may utilize web beacons to track visitor statistics and manage cookies.

In some of our email communications, we may track recipient actions with the email. This may include opening the email or clicking a link included in the email. This is used to monitor user engagement with our communications.

Use and Disclosure of Information

We may use your information:

- To contact you (for example, sending you a newsletter or other informational materials, offers, announcements, or surveys);
- To manage business relationships, employment lifecycle, or other employee-data purposes;
- To communicate with you about our services, products, and Sites, including to follow up on requests or questions that you may submit;
- To send you emails or text messages. (if you do not wish to receive these communications, you may opt out using the “unsubscribe” link in the email or replying “STOP” for text message);
- To provide marketing and advertising communications;
- To track and analyze use of our Sites;
- To prevent, detect, and investigate misuse, fraud, and illegal activities;
- To enhance and maintain our Sites, services, and products;
- To complete a transaction;
- To administer surveys or contests, as applicable;
- For any lawful, legitimate business purpose; and
- As otherwise necessary to perform the services Royal provides.

We may disclose your information:

- With our service providers who perform certain services or functions on our behalf (for example, we may share your information with a hosting service provider who hosts one of our Sites that you have visited, or with a benefits administrator for employment benefit purposes);
- In the event of a change in ownership or control, such as a sale or merger (in the event of a sale or merger, we would request the new entity adhere to this Policy, however, we may not have control over the new entity's privacy practices); in accordance with your consent or direction, as permitted by law;
- As required to comply with applicable laws and legal process, including law enforcement requests;
- To investigate and defend our and others' rights and property (including intellectual property rights); and
- To protect the personal safety of us and others.

If you use our Sites from outside the United States, you consent to the transfer of your information to the United States, and the use and disclosure of your information as permitted under United States laws.

We may combine information collected through different Sites or portions of Sites. In the event we combine personal information collected through our Sites with your personal health information, we will use and disclose such combined information as described in our Notice of Privacy Practice which relates to our collection, use, and disclosure of medical protected health and confidential information.

Security Measures

Protecting your confidential information is a top priority for Royal. In addition to applying confidentiality policies that govern access and use of information by Royal employees, we have implemented physical, administrative, and technical security features and methods designed to safeguard your data in our information systems, including the use of, as appropriate, encryption, firewalls, monitoring, access controls, and other controls where appropriate. While we take reasonable steps to protect your information, we cannot guarantee the security of all systems against any potential incident. If we learn of a breach of your information, then we will notify you in accordance with applicable law.

Protecting Your Username and Password

It is highly important that you keep any of your usernames and passwords for Royal Sites completely confidential. Anyone with access to your username and password will be able to assume your online identity and view your information. It is your responsibility to prevent disclosure of your usernames and passwords and to change your usernames and passwords if you feel that their security has been compromised.

Please note that no one from Royal will ever ask you for your passwords.

Information and Notice to California Residents

This section provides additional information for California residents whose information is subject to the California Consumer Privacy Act (“CCPA”) and California Privacy Rights Act (“CPR”). For the purposes of this section, the term “Personal Information” does not include PHI or other patient information that is maintained by us in compliance with HIPAA or the California Confidentiality of Medical Information Act.

Use and Disclosure of Personal Information

Generally, in the past 12 months, we have collected the categories of Personal Information detailed in the “Information We Collect” section above from the sources described in the “Information We Collect” section above. We have used and disclosed Personal Information for the purposes described, respectively, in the “Use and Disclosure of Information” section above. We do not collect or process Sensitive Personal Information to infer characteristics about you.

Although we have not “sold” personal information for money in the past 12 months, we engage in standard business interactions with third parties that might be considered a “sale” or “sharing” of Personal Information as those concepts are defined by CCPA and/or CPRA. Specifically, we allow third parties to control the collection of Personal Information through cookies and other tracking technologies. These third parties use the data to allow us to understand how the Sites are used, to understand your preferences and interests, and to customize advertisements to those interests and preferences on our behalf. For more information on our use of cookies and similar tracking technologies, please review the “Cookies and Other Tracking Technologies” section above. We do not knowingly sell or disclose personal information of minors under the age of
